OF 'WENDY AND ME'

"We've got to give used car buyers exactly what they want.

We're Chevy dealers."

Chevrolet dealers speak from experience. They know the more models and makes of cars they have on their lots, the more people they can please. And the more they please people, the more people will keep coming back. (One of the reasons Chevrolet leads in new car sales is that they keep used car owners happy enough to come back when they're ready for the step up.)

Chevy dealers know, too, that used car buyers want plenty of time to look and ask questions and test drive and compare.

Chevrolet dealers also know that buyers want a dealer who will service used cars if it's ever needed. So they have a trained, fully equipped service staff to serve you. If all that sounds like what you want, look for the OK sign. . . . Chevrolet Division of General Motors, Detroit, Michigan.

■ Television's next display of pulchritude is set for June 4 on CBS. It's the "Miss U.S.A. Beauty Pageant," which will produce the Miss U.S.A. who will compete for the Miss Universe title on CBS July 24.

Neither of these programs, of course, has anything to do with the "International Beauty Spectacular" on NBC Aug. 13, at which not only Miss International but also Miss American Beauty will be chosen.

■ Miss American Beauty is not to be confused with Miss America, who will be named and sung at by Bert Parks on CBS, Sept. 11.

Whoever Miss America is, she'll be a little older than Miss Teen-Age America (CBS, Oct. 29)—but approximately the same age as America's Junior Miss, who was picked from a large field on NBC last March 19, and whose successor probably will be chosen in March, 1966.

■ Is that all clear now?

You will note that television has a way of extending the season of any sport. Football once started in mid-September and ended on New Year's Day. Now we get football games from June through January. The same, apparently, is true of girl-watching, which used to be confined to one big event—the "Miss America Pageant"—in mid-September. Now the season runs from June through October, with one loner in March.

■ There will be cynics who will insist that some of these beauty pageants are conducted chiefly for the television cameras and for the financial welfare of their sponsors. What a horrible thought! We've got to have contests of this kind. How else would we know who is Miss U.S.A., Miss Universe, Miss International, Miss American Beauty, Miss America, Miss Teen-Age America and America's Junior Miss?

TV TELETYPE*: HOLLYWOOD: DWIGHT WHITNEY REPORTS:

JAMES FRANCISCUS, a cop in Naked City, and a schoolteacher in Mr. Novak, undergoes another change of character in an upcoming Bob Hope Show. He plays a convict who is released from prison during World War II to parachute behind German lines as a U.S. agent . . . The stork is the biggest star of all at Screen Gems studios in Hollywood these days. In addition to ELIZABETH MONTGOMERY, whose baby is going to be part of the action in Bewitched, BARBARA EDEN, star of the new I Dream of Jeannie series, is also expecting. But the Jeannie people are rushing to get episodes finished, since in the show the character is single. In real life MISS EDEN is married to MICHAEL ANSARA, who used to play Cochise in Broken Arrow.

It sounds like more movie-TV rivalry, but there's a new picture coming out called "Let's Kill Uncle." Meanwhile, the real Man from U.N.C.L.E., ROBERT VAUGHN, has been playing the man from Denmark in a Pasadena Playhouse production of "Hamlet" . . . ETHEL MERMAN makes her dramatic TV film debut in a Kraft Suspense Theatre production called "'Twixt Cup and Lip." She plays an ex-movie actress who runs a rooming house.

JOEY BISHOP may be back again next season in a series of variety shows on NBC . . . RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN has a brand-new record. It's called "Joy in the Morning," which coincidentally is the name of the latest CHAMBERLAIN movie . . . ROBERT LANSING, 7-year-old son of the soon-to-be-replaced star of 12 O'clock High, plays a part in what will be his father's last episode of the series. Young LANSING has previously appeared in General Hospital with EMILY McLAUGHLIN, who is his mother.

Add stars of old TV series soon to appear in new ones: ROBERT CONRAD (Hawaiian Eye) in The Wild West; EDMOND O'BRIEN (Sam Benedict) in The Long, Hot Summer; PETER BROWN (Lawman) in The Streets of Laredo; and RICHARD LONG (Bourbon Street Beat and 77 Sunset Strip) in The Big Valley with BARBARA STANWYCK (The Barbara Stanwyck Show) . . . And DENNIS JAMES, who has probably been on more panel shows than anybody, has been signed as host emcee of a new one, Silent Partners.

Step right up, folks

*The case history of a successful TV campaign for a phony diet pill which reduced the viewers' pocketbooks
but little else*

By Peter Wyden

One early morning in the spring of 1959, Dave Garroway, then functioning as the beloved master of ceremonies of the National Broadcasting Company's Today show, fixed his familiar owlish gaze upon 12 million or more television viewers across breakfast-time America and announced, "Now we'll meet Dorothy Bryce, another Regimen girl who dared to lose weight before millions!"

The camera flicked toward a youngish, slim Westchester County, N.Y., housewife and mother of three.

(Adapted from the new book 'The Overweight Society,' by Peter Wyden, published by William Morrow & Co.)

"Right, Dave," she chimed in vigorously. "Here's my 'before' picture, one I'll never forget . . . I was 173 pounds and size 18 before I learned about the Regimen Tablets way to lose weight. Millions saw me weigh in each week on the Today show as I lost 25 pounds in six weeks. . . . You know, reducing the Regimen Tablets way, I ate what I liked—just not so much. Actually felt satisfied on a fraction of the calories I used to eat, and pounds tumbled off. . . ."

Garroway came back with the clincher: "Regimen Tablets! A completely new, clinically proved drug combination to help you reduce. . . ."

Sales record: $6,500,000

Regimen was then the Nation's most popular nonprescription reducing drug. In 1959, thanks to television, its sales reached a record of $6,500,000. Yet, by early 1965, Regimen was off the market. In February, its manufacturer and its former advertising agency were convicted and fined for false advertising in a New York State court. And as this was written, a Federal trial on mail fraud and other serious charges was in progress against them in Brooklyn.

Unhappily, Regimen is more than just another racket that went boom-and-bust. Its success is, first, a revealing insight into the despair and gullibility of an estimated 79,000,000 overweight Americans, some 9,500,000 of whom are dieting at any one time, almost always unsuccessfully. (The best studies have shown that even under expert medical guidance perhaps only 2 percent of dieters manage to take and keep off their excess weight for two years or more, despite the fact that trimness has become the American Ideal and evidence is growing stronger all the time that overweight substantially shortens the life span.)

Secondly, the Regimen record is a study in the exploitation of the unfortunate overweight by imaginative (but dishonest) pill peddlers and their retainers—and by television. Indeed, the Regimen history is so blatant that one wonders how the networks ever permitted themselves to become involved. For all the networks did, Mrs. Bryce and other Regimen endorsers plugged these pills not only on Today but also on Keep Talking (CBS) and American Bandstand (ABC). The following focuses on NBC's involvement because the legal prosecution of the Regimen backers concentrated on this aspect of the case.

NBC did not know that Mrs. Bryce, one of the stars of Garroway's Regimen commercials, was a professional actress; and that while she was "weighing in" weekly on the Today show, she was not only faithfully swallowing Regimen, she was also on a diet which proved so merciless that she became ill. However, two years previously, Regimen had been branded as "worthless" in medical testimony before a Congressional investigating committee. Its mail-order sale had been halted after the U.S. Post Office Department had issued a fraud order against the manufacturer. And also in 1957 the National Better Business Bureau had warned in a nine-page circular that no ingredient of Regimen was "new," that the drug "may not be safe for all persons" and that its advertising was "not in the public interest."

A late-model Barnum

The entrepreneur behind Regimen was a late-model P. T. Barnum: John Andreadis, who called himself John Andre and had long been the master promoter of the obesity business. At one period or another he had been the guiding genius of 19 companies. The U.S. Government had developed a curiosity about many of these enterprises and his legal problems dated back to October 1946, when one of his firms was the subject of a Postal Fraud Order.

The "live weigh-ins" on television featuring such paid endorsers as Dorothy Bryce had been his own idea, and he insisted on personally selecting the performers who would diet on his costly television time.

An experienced dieter

Mrs. Bryce well remembered the time when she was first taken to his office in New York. She had been an actress for 15 years and she was having her problems. She was married to an actor and they had money worries. She had recently had her third child and had gained so much weight that she could get few acting jobs. She had dieted successfully many times in the past, but this time there just didn't seem to be anything that could get her started on a successful diet. She weighed over 30 pounds more than her normal weight of 140 pounds, and she was depressed. "I just kept eating," she said later.

Mrs. Bryce was anxious to impress Andre and also wanted her old figure back. "I was disgusted with myself," she remembered subsequently. "I was kind of thrilled with the idea of having a campaign to force myself to do it."

She had come to the right man. "How do we know, if we choose you, that you are going to lose this weight?" asked Andre, as Mrs. Bryce later remembered for the benefit of a federal prosecutor. Mrs. Bryce pointed out to Andre that she had recently given birth to a child, that her normal weight was 140 pounds and that she was a "strong person."

"I stood up for them and turned around so that they could see," said Mrs. Bryce. "I also told them that when I did weigh 140 pounds I had a very nice figure." The Regimen people decided that she was a reasonable risk and said that they hoped she would lose 20 pounds in four weeks, if possible, and that live weigh-ins might be extended for another two weeks thereafter. She would be paid a fee commensurate with that of a "dramatic actress," plus the usual residuals for each subsequent appearance on film.

"You were strictly an actress in this?" Mrs. Bryce was later asked by Martin Pollner, an Assistant United States Attorney.

"Yes," said Mrs. Bryce.

"You were given great inducement, monetarily, to lose this weight?" she was asked.

"Oh, yes," she said.

By November 1959 she had earned $17,701 from Regimen commercials.

"They were never told to consciously restrict their caloric intake," Andre testified about Mrs. Bryce and his other paid guinea pigs. "They were just told that in order for them to lose weight, they had to eat less."

Mrs. Bryce entertained few illusions about the effectiveness of Regimen.

Pay check a factor

"The first two weeks didn't seem too bad," she testified. "I felt that there was an appetite curb in the Regimen Tablets, and I have been told this was probably the pay check. . . . I had a great incentive to lose this weight. It sort of became an obsession with me. . . . I had steak and eggs and grapefruit and yogurt. The closer I got to my own weight, the more difficult it was to lose, and so after the first few weeks it was very, very difficult for me."

Did she count her calories? "I'm sure it was less than 800 a day during the first two weeks," she recalled. After that she ate even less.

by a doctor who was suggested by the Regimen enterprisers, and after suffering for four weeks the discomforts of her very strict diet, she returned to him with swollen ankles and a decidedly short temper. The doctor was not upset. He recommended that she take Diuril, a diuretic that would help her system dispose of excess water. For her temper she took phenobarbital. She was absolutely determined to get rid of 20 pounds in four weeks so that her contract might be extended. But time had almost run out when she still had several pounds to lose. She decided to take drastic steps.

Just grapefruit and yogurt

"So I ate hardly anything at all the last three or four days," she said. "Just grapefruit and yogurt . . . lots of coffee and lots of cigarets." And it should be remembered that Mrs. Bryce was by no means the only paid Regimen endorser who put herself through such self-torture. One of her fellow-endorsers, Antonia Antonacci, who starred in "live weigh-ins" on the CBS Keep Talking show, once subsisted briefly on nothing but cucumbers and celery.

The health of both women suffered as a result. Miss Antonacci complained that she became "very nervous" and suffered from heart palpitations. Mrs. Bryce needed vitamin B-12 injections and other treatment. "I was anemic," she said. "I couldn't face food."

In the meantime, ever the actress, she cheerily played the role that had been handed her by her employers. She also signed testimonials reporting that she "felt fine the whole time" when she was taking Regimen, that she "never got irritable" and "never felt hungry once." She did refuse to sign a statement that she enjoyed "rich desserts and potatoes with gravy" while thriving on John Andre's tablets, but she was not penalized for this recalcitrance. Perhaps she was forgiven because, when she stepped on the scale on the Today show and her weight loss was triumphantly noted on the big score board, she surely did sparkle.

"Dorothy, you look sensational!" Jack Lescoulie once said on the show. "How do you feel?"

"Wonderful!" she said. "And what a pleasure to be trim again. I can't praise the Regimen Tablets way enough!"

"You may not lose as much as Dorothy," Lescoulie told viewers. "You may lose more!"

Sometime after Dorothy Bryce began appearing on Today, there were rumors around the studio that her weight loss just possibly might be due to forces beyond Regimen.

"Toward the end of the campaign," Garroway remembered, "to the best of my memory, I heard one or two or three people question this area, but they had no definite information." He was so harried during the years on Today, he later recalled sadly, that nobody had much time to question anything. "There were more thoughts after the fact than during it," he said.

Supervision suggested

Somebody did entertain relevant thoughts even before the fact, and this was Percy F. Smith, supervisor of advertising standards at NBC. When the weigh-ins were first proposed, he suggested that the Regimen cures be administered under 24-hour supervision by doctors in a hospital. The advertising agency protested that this demand was "too strong" and it was dropped as "impractical." Instead, NBC agreed to settle on affidavits from the endorsers and the doctors who examined them (who in turn relied on the veracity of the endorsers).

NBC nevertheless felt that it had given John Andre a pretty rough time for his money. The scale used for the weigh-ins on the Today show had been meticulously checked by a representative of the manufacturer, and the Regimen advertising copy was constantly being toned down. Andre and his associates were eager to get by with saying that the tablets worked "without dieting or super-will power" and that they would cause customers to "lose weight automatically." NBC kept turning down proposed ads until they contained enough "weasels." This is the industry term for artful qualification—the kind that doesn't leap out at the audience and might even be overlooked.

A clever weasel

NBC, for example, would not permit Mrs. Bryce to assert that she lost her weight "without diet." She was merely allowed to say that she lost it "without starvation diet." Since she did eat 800 calories a day and did not, in fact, starve to death, this was a truthful, if well-weaseled, statement.

The exact wording of the Regimen commercials turned into a running debate about semantics. Four years later, when Smith was questioned by prosecutor Pollner, the Government felt that when Mrs. Bryce was permitted to say on TV, "I ate what I liked, just not so much," the audience was entitled to conclude that Regimen had inhibited her appetite.

Smith disagreed. "To me it indicates that the plan was to have cut-down caloric intake," he said.

Pollner contended that the TV commercials added up to one conclusion for the dieter: "The pills will do the work, rather than yourself."

Percy Smith demurred: "Not in our commercials. We didn't interpret it in that way." He said that NBC felt there was a "psychological factor" in the Regimen "program" which could be expected to help dieters to keep down their food intake. Besides, there was medical proof of Regimen's effectiveness. It had been documented by "clinicals"—clinical trials administered by doctors to groups of patients under their supervision.

Not everyone took the wording of the commercials quite so seriously. "Clinically proved" is such a meaningless phrase to anyone who is looking for specifics," Dave Garroway told Pollner, "and there is the weasel. 'To help you reduce caloric intake.' So will a rope!" Moreover, as at least one doctor who was involved later admitted, many of the rosy results of the tests were spurious.

By November 1959, the doubts about Andre had finally become too much for NBC, and on Percy Smith's recommendation, the network decided to terminate its dealings with him.

"I am convinced that this client and this agency do not want to meet their responsibilities by complying with our requirements," Smith wrote to his superiors. "Their copy requires constant revision and entails more time than 10 other accounts. As fast as we can straighten out copy, they seek other subterfuges to undermine us."

Under today's tightened network rules for what constitutes acceptable advertising, it is highly doubtful that a promoter of Andre's caliber could still slip past the censors. And yet it is not impossible, because men like Andre are extraordinarily resourceful.

Indeed, he might have been able to skirt really serious trouble with the Government if he had not thought of himself as a legitimate businessman. When some cartons of Regimen were stolen from a plant in Brooklyn in 1959, he hustled down to the New York County District Attorney's office and asked for the investigation which led to his downfall and to the exposure of what Assistant D. A. Joseph Stone called "one of the most brazen mass-media frauds ever perpetrated on the American people."

In show biz you gotta have a gimmick—even if you happen to be a dog. Just as blondes who can wear a bikini are a dime a dozen in Hollywood, so are dogs that can roll over or bark on cue. But if a dog can sneeze, or sing, or yawn, or fall over backward—then he's got something. A dog with a special talent can earn his owner as much as $500 for a few minutes' work in a TV show. Consequently, trainers (such as Frank Inn, who owns the eight dogs pictured here) go out of their way to teach their four-legged students unusual stunts. All of these dogs can do basic tricks—just as many household pets can—but each has that extra something, a gimmick, that can mean the difference between Fido and big dough.

REVIEW

by Cleveland Amory

Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea

We promise you we are going to resist the temptation to say this show is the bottom; because it isn't. Neither, however, is it, shall we say, high adventure. It's just middling. Your children will love it and, as often as not, Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea's suspense will offer you escape. And these days, that's not too bad, television fare being what it is.

The chief character is an admiral named Nelson. No kidding. Anyway, played by Richard Basehart, he is admirable. He plays it straight, and, considering the plots and dialog, that isn't easy. Captain Crane (David Hedison), on the other hand, is a less successful character—possibly because, the way his role is written, he doesn't seem to have any. The rest of the cast, as well as the guest stars, particularly Torin Thatcher and Hedley Mattingly in one recent show, are better.

One show started with Nelson and Crane trying to track down "something that made two friends hate each other enough to kill." Well, sir, as sure as you're born, they take off to the sort of misty half-world this show loves—which is a kind of a cross between "Wuthering Heights" and "Here Comes Mr. Jordan," only it's all underwater—and in no time at all they're on an island. Here there is all sorts of skulduggery, including a general of the People's Republic and a mad scientist who's tired of testing his hate drug on animals and wants to start on people.

"Something," says Nelson grimly, "is watching us." Well, something is, all right—and, you can believe this or not, it turns out to be the scientist's television cameras. In fact, from that time on, the entire episode turns out to turn on whether or not the boys are going to be able to turn off their own show. But when the scientist turns them loose, the general of the People's Republic is worried. "I thought there was no place on the island they could hide from our cameras," he says inscrutably. "There isn't," replies the scientist, like the good network man he is. "Let our automatic tracker track them."

But the scientist has underrated his Nielsen—or, rather, Nelson. First the admiral stops Crane from eating berries so he won't get contaminated with the hate drug, and then he turns his attention to "the automatic camera with the self-activating transmitter." "If," he tells Crane, "we aim the two cameras directly at each other, the self-activating activator will lock and the automatic transmitter will automatically. . . ." Well, if you think we're going to spoil the summer rerun of this gem for you, we're not.

SUNDAY IS

COLLEGE BOWL

DAY

ON NBC-TV

The intercollegiate battle of brains brings fun and stimulation to the whole family! See if you can out-guess the guest students...match wits with intercollegiate champions...enjoy the General Electric College Bowl, now in its 7th year.

5:30 PM • CH 4, 8

LETTERS

Correspondence for this department should be addressed to Letters Department, TV GUIDE, Radnor, Pa. All letters must be signed. Names withheld upon request.

VIEWER SERVICE

If you wish to write comments to those in charge of a specific show, you should send your letters to: (Name of Show), TV GUIDE Viewer Service, Box 800, Radnor, Pa. These letters will be forwarded to the proper executives.

NAPOLEON VS. ILLYA

All the fuss over David McCallum ["The Greatest Thing Since Peanut Butter and Jelly," April 17] would be much less astonishing to "show biz" authorities if they would think back a few years ago to women who walked out of "Gone with the Wind" in love with Leslie Howard. There's something intriguing about a man with brains, breeding and talent.

Mrs. Leonard Grossman
Silver Spring, Md.

Don't use the hackneyed designation "sex symbol." What he has is as old as the hills—plain, old-fashioned, high-powered charm.

Mazine Montgomery Coan
Galesburg, Ill.

After I've seen the show I can't tell what the episode was about. I watch it to see Napoleon in action.

Mrs. Carlton W. Chick
Kennebunkport, Maine

Illya may appeal to the coeds, but once you graduate it's got to be Napoleon.

Anne Woodford
Cumberland, Ky.

GIVE IT A CHANCE

Re Cleveland Amory's April 10 review of For the People. Finding an absorbing, realistic, well-acted drama on television today is an all-too-infrequent experience. For the People should certainly be given a fair chance for a full season.

Betty Greenberg
Johnstown, Pa.

GOLF EXPOSURE

I couldn't agree more with Cary Middlecoff's warning of golf over-exposure ["Why Golf May Find Itself Deep in the Rough," April 10]. This process may be greatly hastened by the continued pre-emption by golf of top programs such as G-E College Bowl, thus generating resentment toward the sport, the sponsors and the station.

Morgan C. Larkin
Bay Village, Ohio

MELANCHOLY OUTLOOK

For the first time in years television has given birth to a series distinguished by superlative acting, imaginative scripting and genuinely refreshing comedy. Now I hear The Rogues is going off. This is a sad commentary on the increasingly melancholy outlook for television.

William S. Whiting
Homer, N.Y.

A SMALL RANCH

Evidently Marian Dern has never been in Oregon. She said Walter Brennan ["Foxy Grampa in a Business Suit," April 10] owned half of Oregon, 18,000 acres. Here in Eastern Oregon 18,000 acres is rather a small ranch.

Phyllis Wright
Baker, Ore.

FOR THE RECORD

Northern California Edition

Plastic Surgery: Kindly old Dr. Zorba—neurosurgeon, philosopher, mentor of Ben Casey and possessor of the most luxuriant head of hair this side of Ringo Starr—is leaving TV's hospital zone. Sam Jaffe, the distinguished character actor who plays Zorba, has long been bored with the role and eager to relinquish it. ABC has finally agreed to let him off the hook, as just one phase of an elaborate plastic-surgery procedure prescribed to give Ben Casey a new look. Here's what's contemplated: Franchot Tone will replace Jaffe, portraying the hospital's new "chief of service." A young actor, James McMullen, will also join the cast, as a side-kick of Ben's. Bettye Ackerman (Mrs. Jaffe) will stick with the show; as Dr. Maggie Graham, she'll resume her on-again, off-again romance with Casey. And the series itself will be semiserialized—each week's plot will be resolved, but one or more subplots will remain unresolved, to induce viewers to tune in next week. How does Jaffe feel about leaving? "So, so happy!" he exulted. "Why not? I didn't have enough to do. It was like the Chinese water torture."

Empty Saddles: Rawhide, too, is planning some changes. There'll be some empty saddles in the old cattle drive next fall. The principal absentee will be Eric Fleming, who, as Gil Favor, has been sharing star billing with Clint Eastwood (Rowdy Yates). Fleming, Sheb Wooley (Pete) and some of the other current cowhands have been unhorsed by CBS; Eastwood is being promoted to trail boss, and Paul Brinegar (Wishbone) has also been rehired; and a few new regulars will join the show.

Lively Meeting: CBS's annual stockholders meeting, held last week in New York, was a lively affair which produced answers to such pressing questions as: Who fired Yogi Berra? (CBS didn't do it, said board chairman William S. Paley.) And did CBS buy Jackie Gleason's Peekskill, N.Y., mansion to use as a "reducing spa" for overweight network executives? (No, said Paley, the deal was made "to induce Mr. Gleason to stay on CBS." "Why induce him?" a stockholder shot back. "He's getting more money than you do. He certainly doesn't appeal to me.") But a more provocative question, one that's being asked by a lot of people—why was James T. Aubrey Jr. ousted from the presidency of CBS-TV?—still remains unanswered. All Paley offered was the information that Aubrey "was discharged for management reasons." Frank Stanton, the corporation's president, wasn't much more help. He stated that Aubrey's "services were terminated because we became dissatisfied in recent months with his administration of the . . . network." Paley did, however, deny one allegation that has been made against Aubrey. "The programming arrangements made by Mr. Aubrey," he said, "were normal and usual in every respect, and no preferential treatment was accorded any producer."

1:00 7 7 11 13 TOURNAMENT OF CHAMPIONS

SPECIAL The final round of the Tournament of Champions is telecast live from the Desert Inn Country Club, Las Vegas. Jim McKay, Chris Scherke, Bill Flemming and Johnny Johnston report.

The 28 entrants in the $75,000 event—all winners of PGA tournaments within the past year—teed off last Thursday for today's pot of gold: a $15,000 first prize. Defending champ Jack Nicklaus, fresh from his record-breaking Masters win, is shooting for his third straight victory in this event. Arnold Palmer, 53-year-old "Slammin' " Sam Snead, Billy Casper and Doug Sanders are also in the field.

Cameras cover the last four holes of the par-72, 7073-yard course. The par-5, 501-yard 15th is a long dogleg left with water on the right. The deceptive 16th (par 3, 163 yards) has a tricky green protected by water and traps. The par-4, 406-yard 17th is a dogleg right spotted with water and bunkers. The 18th (par 4, 432 yards), a dogleg right, requires drives over water to a carefully guarded green. The gusty wind is also a hazard on the desert course.

fabulous secret formula for banishing gray hair

FROM GREECE

The Greeks have always been famed for their love of classic, youthful beauty. No wonder so many Greek men and women refuse to allow their hair to look old! Instead, at the first sign of gray, they turn to a fabulous formula that changes gray hair to natural-looking color. A secret formula now used successfully by American men and women—GRECIAN FORMULA-16.

A remarkable colorless lotion

Not a harsh coal-tar dye or messy rinse. GRECIAN FORMULA-16 gradually changes gray to natural-looking color—in 21 days or less. And occasional use keeps it that way! Works for blondes, brunettes, red-heads. Just apply at scalp—and watch gray go away, stay away. Try GRECIAN FORMULA-16! At all drug and dept. stores —3.50 plus tax. Satisfaction guaranteed.

WORKS ELECTRONICALLY / LOADS IN 2 SECONDS

Fotron is so easy to use it makes "automatic" cameras seem complicated. You never even touch the film. Just follow the simple instructions; push the proper button, and get a good color picture.

The instant you push that button, Fotron takes over—focuses the lens, sets the exposure, fires the flash, snaps the picture, moves the film to the next exposure and tells you how many shots you have left.

Fotron always stops the action sharp and clear. No double exposures, no bad exposures. The built-in lifetime Sunburst electronic flash goes off every time you shoot, giving you perfect sunlight day or night. No "power failure" problems, either. Fotron comes with lifetime power pack and recharger built-in. To restore energy, just plug your camera into any wall outlet!

With all this, Fotron saves you money. You never have to buy gadgets or attachments, you never waste film, and you never have to buy batteries or flashbulbs. In fact, the money you save over the years in flashbulbs alone will pay for your camera!

FOTRON A Space-Age Camera From A Space-Age Company

Fotron is built by Traid Corporation, one of the nation's leading companies in high-precision photographic instrumentation for America's space and defense programs since world war two. Created by men who work to the world's highest standards of performance and reliability, this is a camera you may depend upon.

9:00 7 7 11 13 MELINA MERCOURI

SPECIAL COLOR The Greeks' joie de vivre and the beauties of their ancient land are shown off with zest by movie star Melina Mercouri, herself an outstanding example of what the Hellenes can produce.

Miss Mercouri sings a little, and takes us on a tour of such landmarks as the Acropolis, Delphi, and the Aegean Islands. But more important is something less tangible: the temperament of the Greek man-in-the-street, with his intense involvements, delight in conversation and music, and love of country.

In Athens, we visit a night spot where Melina greets some of her friends, listens to songs and watches George Provias and Theodoros Calpaxidis dance; see the capital city's flea market; and enter a taverna, where patrons argue vehemently over just what aspects of Greek life the American TV audience ought to see. On the island of Crete, we visit the legendary Labyrinth, tour a museum of Minoan art, and attend a wedding ceremony. Then back to Athens for the Carnival celebration.

10:00 5 10 12 WORLD TOWN MEETING

[SPECIAL] The Early Bird satellite transmitted its first live telecast across the Atlantic yesterday. Earlier today the Bird was busy again, linking Paris, New York and London for a live discussion of the situation in Vietnam by statesmen of the Atlantic Alliance. Tonight, the discussion is repeated on tape.

Those taking part . . . London: U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, former British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home and Michael Stewart, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs. New York: 1964 Republican Presidential candidate Barry Goldwater. Paris: Maurice Schumann, president of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the French Chamber of Deputies.

The position of the British Labour Government has been to support, by and large, U.S. policy in Southeast Asia. The French, on the other hand, have been critical. Today's discussion is likely to touch upon such topics as the nature of the conflict in South Vietnam; the bombing of North Vietnam and its possible consequences; the complex relationship between Hanoi, Peking and Moscow; the experience of the French in Indochina; and recent developments affecting the war.

Dean Rusk

Barry Goldwater

Sir Alec Douglas-Home

Charles Collingwood is the moderator. (60 min.)

Why do some families seem to get more out of life?

Some families glow with the pure enjoyment of life. Every day, their lives grow more interesting, more productive, and more meaningful. Because they take a deep interest in each other and the ever-changing world around them, they usually have Encyclopaedia Britannica in their home.

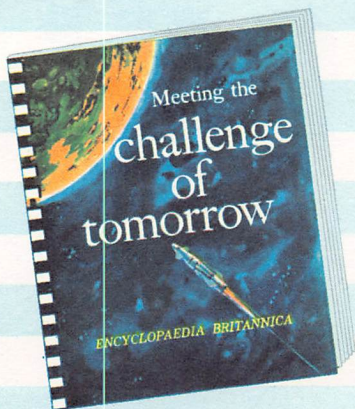

As in so many lively families, "looking it up in Britannica" has become a familiar habit at homework time, during family discussions, and whenever complete, authoritative information is needed on almost every conceivable topic.

Where you find a family that enjoys life, you'll usually find the Britannica helping parents and children fulfill their desires for knowledge, self-improvement, and a better way of life.

10:00 3 4 NBC NEWS SPECIAL

SPECIAL Espionage today, according to producer Ted Yates, has "a new dimension, one that involves changing another country's government when necessary." Newsman John Chancellor narrates this study of espionage, focusing on the Central Intelligence Agency.

Films and interviews recall some CIA operations, including the toppling of Guatemala's leftist Arbenz regime in 1954; the Bay of Pigs invasion in 1961; and the current activity in Northern Laos, which we hear about from CIA pilots discussing their missions in a Hong Kong bar.

Among those interviewed are ex-CIA chief Allen Dulles, who discusses the past, present and future of espionage; Richard Bissel, former CIA director of clandestine operations, who talks about CIA agents and activities; Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D., Minn.), a severe critic of the CIA; and Yon "El Chino" Sosa, a Communist rebel leader in Guatemala. Giving

Connie with George Burns

BY RICHARD WARREN LEWIS

Flanked by two naked light bulbs on Stage 6A at the Warner Brothers studios in Burbank, Cal., a dozen actors, producers and other production personnel fidgeted at a long green table, nervously eying the stage door. They had convened for the first rehearsal of a segment of Wendy and Me, called for 9 o'clock on a Monday morning. Everybody had been punctual for the run-through save Connie Stevens, who plays Wendy. Comedian George Burns, the Me as well as the series producer, gamely filled the tedious wait with anecdotes from his vast lode of show-business nostalgia. The director glanced at his watch with growing irritation.

Beneath floral-printed sheets, 15 miles away, Miss Stevens slept peacefully beside her husband of 16 months in a king-size bed. A phone call from the studio finally roused her. She hastily changed from her ice-yellow shorty nightgown into a polka-dot shift she had worn to church the day before. Her teeth brushed and a comb perfunctorily raked through her short blonde hair, Connie sprinted out of her seven-room ranch house, gunned her brand-new Mustang fastback and headed for the freeway.

Fifty minutes late, she undulated onto the set. Her half-opened gimlet eyes were shielded by huge sunglasses, her translucent skin was devoid of any makeup except face powder. "Now, to get even with her," Burns said, in a stage whisper, "when she reads her first line, let's not answer her for a half hour."

Connie picked up her leather-bound script and the rehearsal began. "Well, I'm all packed," she read. Her line was followed by complete silence. Connie's face turned red as the assembled throng stared at her with mock menace. Then they burst out laughing. "Let's get on with the thing,"

Burns interjected, having savored his subtle reprimand. "I just hope the script is as funny."

What makes the Wendy and Me episodes humorous is their unabashed resemblance to the old Burns and Allen television series that enjoyed a successful run of eight years in prime evening time. Connie plays a younger version of the late Gracie Allen—a feather-headed mistress of the malaprop, with quaint methods of dealing with the computer age.

Quite possibly this variety of fluff-headed female has become all too familiar for discerning TV viewers. Despite Miss Stevens' supposed popularity—she has decorated more than 200 covers of fan magazines and once was named among the Nation's most admired women in a Gallup poll—Wendy and Me lagged in the ratings all season. And last month, when ABC announced its schedule for 1965-66, Wendy was among the absent.

This harsh fact hardly dismays Miss Stevens, even though it means a hefty financial loss. She was cut in for 12½ percent of the profits from the series. "A while back a lady told me: 'You're so wonderful in that show, you're gonna be on the air for 15 years,'" Connie reports. "My reaction to that was—my eyes widened and I panicked. I just don't have the emotional capacity to stick with something for that long. I have to be movin' all the time. I hate to disillusion people and say I love this part and I could do it for the rest of my dying days."

Most of all, Connie yearns to be a revered motion-picture star, and she works overtime at making this dream come true. Last January she brazenly burst into the office of producer Ernest Lehman in an attempt to sell herself as the young wife opposite Mr. and Mrs. Richard Burton in the forthcoming movie "Who's continued Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" Dozens of actresses who possessed credentials far superior to Connie's nebulous television roles and her skein of troubled-teen-ager films ("Parrish," "Susan Slade," "Palm Springs Weekend") had already been vetoed. But this did not deter the ambitious Connie. "I'd be perfect for that part," she insisted. "I'm the right age and I can handle it. And the timing in my career is right to do a part like that, completely different than anything I've ever done. My craft is tremendously important all of a sudden." [Her efforts failed, however, and the role went to Sandy Dennis, a Broadway actress.—Ed.]

She refers to her craft

At age 26 Miss Stevens can now glibly refer to her employment as a "craft," just like the big box-office actors do. She reads "Psycho-cybernetics" and "Uhuru" instead of fan magazines, which once breathlessly reported her every minor peccadillo. "I don't read those stories any more because they upset me," she says. "So I look at the pictures. And I still get upset, because I don't look like Elizabeth Taylor."

As if to underscore her new maturity, she has taken to wearing big, floppy hats, just like the fashionable ladies wear in the East. To commemorate this milestone, the Millinery Institute of America recently awarded Connie its Golden Hat award, whatever that is. She has also become an active charity woman, functioning as activities chairman for a fund-raising group called Les Girls, and worker for the Cheerful Helpers for Handicapped Children. She performs at countless benefits for church groups, and sponsors a little-league baseball team.

To reveal these activities to the world at large and tub-thump her new adult image, Connie has a full-time personal manager. But instead of sitting starry-eyed reading her name underlined in red grease pencil in the news clippings, and then meticulously pasting them into a leather scrapbook, she merely hoards the tear sheets in envelopes and buries them in her dresser drawer.

No longer is she faced with the serious weight problems which dogged her several years ago. At one point, while she was beset with career frustrations, she would gorge herself on Italian bread. Her tiny, 5-foot-2-inch frame ballooned to as much as 150 pounds. Three times in 1962 she suffered physical breakdowns and was admitted to hospitals for extensive tests and bed rest. "I had too much energy for what I was capable of burning up, so I didn't notice that I was getting run-down," she says. "I'm mostly anemic and tire easily."

Today she takes vitamin pills and B-12 shots. Her weight problems arrested, she hovers around 120 pounds. Often she consumes nothing more than cups of black coffee for lunch. Concerned stagehands have a habit of slipping Hershey bars between the pages of her script to get her through the day.

The familiar pony tail she wore as Cricket Blake in Hawaiian Eye has been shorn in favor of a modified Oliver cut Connie spotted in a movie magazine. It was 27-year-old James Stacy, a ski instructor turned actor, who scissored it off while he and Connie were frolicking at a swimming pool, two days before their marriage in 1963. "My hair was past my waist then," she says, "just about down to my hips. When he cut it, I ran into my room and cried. I looked so awful."

The Stacy-Stevens nuptials, a surprise to many gossip columnists who had linked Miss Stevens with more widely known swains such as Glenn Ford, were recited before 700 invited guests in a cavernous San Fernando Valley church. The priest used a microphone to be heard in the rear pews, and 15 Mitchell Boys singers offered "Ave Maria." Members of the Warner Brothers police force restrained hundreds of panting fans outside. "I was so shaky," recalls Connie, who wore a 7-foot-long train. "It was such a big deal. The first time I was married I wanted everything to go smoothly."

That old Hollywood problem

The marriage, apparently, has gone smoothly enough, although some strain has been caused by a problem familiar in Hollywood marriages—the wife has greater fame and more earning power than the husband. At the time of their marriage Stacy had completed a film role opposite Hayley Mills. But not until he shot a pilot last year for a television series, And Baby Makes Three, and played the lead in a quickie movie called "A Swingin' Summer," was Stacy especially active. "My wife has given me two more years to support me," he tells friends privately. Of life with Connie, a purposeful woman with varying moods, he says, "I've learned to live with her."

Life with Connie, a spitz and a Yorkshire terrier centers around an open-beamed home in Sherman Oaks. The place is the scene of regular poker games involving Stacy and actors Bob Fuller and James MacArthur, who sit around smoking El Producto Queens that Connie has wangled from the show's sponsors. "It looks funny for those young fellas to be smokin' cigars," she says. "The house stinks for the next three days."

Together, sprawled in an olive green lounge chair Connie gave Jim for a birthday present, the Stacy's stay home each Monday night and watch Wendy and Me in black-and-white on a color-TV set she won on a quiz show. Connie, who viewed a total of only nine Hawaiian Eye adventures in four years, has faithfully scrutinized each Wendy segment. "It's very important to me now," she says. "I watch everything—the editing, the costumes, the makeup."

Not long ago, when Connie was playing Cricket Blake, she couldn't care less. A contract player at Warner Brothers (she had signed a $300-a-week pact in 1959), Connie wrangled for nearly two years with studio executives over her thankless role as handmaiden to Troy Donahue in Hawaiian Eye. She pleaded for a part of substance. The studio insisted on preserving her pristine Cricket image and forbade her to accept conflicting offers in films, television and night clubs.

Connie, whom Hedda Hopper once called "an apple blossom with the wham of a bulldozer," employed a subtle form of retribution. She took two days off to mourn the death of her dog, a Yorkshire named Beau. But when she backed out of a nationwide personal-appearance tour to plug the show and failed to report for work one day, Warners suspended her contract. Connie first threatened to quit show business, but she cooled down and flew to Sydney, Australia, to appear in a night-club revue. Warners enjoined her from performing in Australia, charging breach of contract.

Settled out of court

Eventually, the dispute was amicably resolved out of court. Connie lost an appreciable amount of money during her suspension, but she won her point. Her current contract enables her to make night-club appearances—she is tentatively slated to double with Burns in Las Vegas and Lake Tahoe this summer—and keep the money herself, rather than turn it over to the studio as in the past. She is also permitted to appear on other network television shows besides her own, and has already guest-starred on the Red Skelton and Hollywood Palace hours this season. There still remains, however, a residue of displeasure with her long-time employers. "I haven't worked with that many great actors," she says, bluntly. "I've been with Warner Brothers for too long."

To pacify the temperamental actress Warners has gone out of its way to make her comfortable on Wendy and Me. Connie's specially decorated mobile dressing room is worthy of those accorded to feature-film players. It features a porch painted pink, with three wooden hearts dangling from the railing and a multicolored canvas awning with a white fringe atop the entrance way. Inside there are pink chairs, pink carpeting and a pink velvet couch. The walls have been covered with silk wallpaper adorned with hand-painted daisies and more pink hearts. "I feel like America's Sweetheart," Connie says.

They don't ask if it's good, just IS IT READY?

BY MAX SHULMAN

Authors Max Shulman, Bruce Catton and Bennett Cerf, faculty members of the Famous Writers School, conducted a writing seminar recently of the Art Directors Club of New York. During the course of the evening, Max Shulman, creator of Dobie Gillis, talked about television. His remarks follow:

I'm going to talk about why television is so bad and I've got five minutes to do it in. Now, you may think that five minutes isn't enough time to tell why television is so bad, but it is.

I'll tell you exactly what's wrong with television . . . me, me, my guild, the writers, that's what's wrong with television. Never in the history of the world have there been enough good writers to go around. Never. In ancient Greece six plays were produced every year at the drama festival. Four were bad and one was shaky. On Broadway about 70 plays come in every year. Sixty are bad and seven are plagiarized. Book publishers issue about 2000 novels a year; 1950 are bad, 11 are dirty. Magazines publish about 5000 short stories a year. Two are good. There's never been enough talent to go around, and we ought to consider that when a man writes a book, or a play, or even a story, he can take as long as he wants; he can take a month or a year or two years or 10 years. He can wait for the Muse; he can sharpen his pencil, he can walk his cheetah. He can just do whatever he likes.

And with all that time and no pressure and no deadline, more than nine times out of 10 he comes up with a bomb.

Well, think how it is in television. Think how it is in television when you haven't got the time; the clock is ticking all the time. Somebody . . . Moses came down from the mountain and said you had to do 39 shows a year. And so you do. That means that the deadline must be met. They don't ask you is it good; they ask one question: Is it ready? If it's ready, we shoot it.

So I don't know any writers personally who would not gladly take at least half of every word they have written and burn it, destroy it, leave no trace of it.

Therefore you've got a situation, a business, in which writers who are bad more than half the time, even when they've got all the time in the world, and no pressure, are under a gun that simply makes them shake and quiver and tremble all over. That is why television is bad.

But when a writer comes up with a good script, make no mistake, it gets produced. Not only does it get produced, but the writer gets signed for six more, all of which will be bad. All of which probably will get good ratings.

There are those who feel that the rating system used for television is a capricious and inaccurate thing. It's not. I don't know exactly how many homes are involved in the Nielsen sampling . . . 2500, 3500, whatever . . . but we know that the technique of sampling has become astonishingly accurate, as witness what happened in the last Presidential election. They were almost on the button. And I think Nielsen does absolutely reflect what the people want to see. I think people are getting exactly the kind of television they want to see. You know, when people cry about why was this show canceled; it was so great . . . the reason it was canceled is that nobody looked at it, or not enough to make it possible for the advertiser to pay for it.

I think the Niensens are accurate. I think that television is not primarily an entertainment medium; television is primarily a sales medium, and the Niensens reflect the number of people who will buy the product. And the effect on the writer is obviously to make the writer write the kind of stories that people are looking at because that's where the jobs are.

What's the outlook? Pretty dim, pretty dim, very dim. Television's not going to get any better. You're going to get the mixture as before, every year it's going to be just as bad, from now until the end of time.

And that is my message to you today. I hope . . . I do hope that I haven't stepped on any toes; I hope I haven't offended anybody, because . . . well, in my mind nothing is as precious as friendship, and the richest man in the world is the one with the most money. Thank you.

TURN PAGE FOR RECIPE

From sunny Spain comes a bright, gay dish that is a subtle combination of delicious flavors. Ordinarily it is cooked on top of the range in a special paella pan, but for ease of preparation we have baked ours in the oven.

SPANISH PAELLA

(Makes 6 to 8 generous servings)

- |   |   |
|---|---|
| ¾ cup olive oil   | 1 tsp. whole saffron fibers or  |
| ½ lb. boneless pork, cut into½-inch cubes                                     | ¼ tsp. powdered saffron   |
| 3 chorizos (Spanish sausage)or hot Italian sausage, cutinto ½-inch slices | 1 qt. chicken broth (approx.)   |
| 1 2½-lb. chicken, cut up  | 2 tbsp. lemon juice   |
| ½ tsp. crumbled thyme   | Salt and pepper   |
| 2 garlic cloves, mashed   | 1 lb. raw shrimp, shelledand deveined                                     |
| 2 medium onions, chopped  | 3 6-oz. frozen rock lobster tails, cut,shells and all, into 1-inch slices |
| 1 can (4 oz.) pimiento,drained and chopped                                    | 1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen peas   |
| 2 cups long-grain rice  | 1 pkg. (9 oz.) frozenartichoke hearts                                     |
| 1 small tomato, chopped   | 16 well-scrubbed mussels  |
|   | 16 well-scrubbed little-neck clams  |

Heat olive oil in a large skillet. Brown pork and sausage pieces. As pieces brown, remove to a large (3-qt.) casserole or roasting pan. Rub chicken with thyme and garlic. Brown on all sides in oil; remove chicken to casserole. Add onion and pimiento to pan drippings; saute until onions are golden. Add rice, tomato and saffron; stir until rice is well coated. Sprinkle rice mixture over chicken. Pour chicken broth and lemon juice evenly over casserole. Add salt and pepper to taste. Put uncovered casserole into preheated 350° F. oven for 15 minutes. Put shrimp and lobster into casserole, pushing pieces down into liquid. Continue baking until rice is almost tender, about 15 minutes. At this time the liquid should be almost absorbed. Thaw peas and artichoke hearts under running cold water, and separate. Add to casserole and stir to distribute through rice mixture. Push mussels and clams into rice. Bake 5 minutes, or until mussels and clams open. Add more broth if necessary to keep moist. To keep warm and prevent overcooking, cover and lower heat to 250° F.—Helen Feingold; photo by Midori

Answer to last week's puzzle

TV TELETYPE : NEW YORK: NEIL HICKEY REPORTS;

Trumpeter AL HIRT gets his own show for the summer, replacing JACKIE GLEASON for 13 weeks beginning June 19. Executive producer BOB PRECHT says some of the shows will be live . . . DANNY THOMAS will be doing five more specials for NBC next year; two will be follow-ups on this year's "Wonderful World of Burlesque."

Requests for test forms for CBS's May 24 "National Drivers' Test" program have been coming in at the rate of 50,000 a day. As many as 20 million viewers may participate . . . SALLY ANN HOWES will be hostess for the Miss U.S.A. contest on June 4, and for the Miss Universe contest on July 24. Both are on CBS.

NBC Children's Theatre is planning a version of E. B. WHITE's tale "Stuart Little" for next season . . . ABC's Wide World of Sports goes to Dublin for the All-Ireland Hurling Championship on May 15, and to Birkdale, England, for the British Open Golf Championship on July 10 . . . The Army-Navy lacrosse game will be on NBC Sports in Action June 13.

ED SULLIVAN has a rare combo on May 16: the BEACH BOYS and PETULA CLARK, for discotheque fans; and MARGOT FONTEYN and RUDOLF NUREYEV for the balletomanes . . . Although JACK BENNY's weekly show will be off NBC next season, he will be doing at least two specials for that network . . . CORBETT MONICA will be the host on the Tonight show May 31 . . . Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea has set a new bit of gimmickry next season: a flying submarine, no less . . . CBS Reports is planning an in-depth examination of suicide and its causes . . . Secretary of the Treasury HENRY FOWLER will be interviewed on Issues and Answers May 16 . . . Directions '65 has a documentary on alcoholism on May 23.

TEN YEARS AGO THIS WEEK: It was a week of names: JAMES DEAN appeared on Playhouse of Stars; G.E. Theater had BORIS KARLOFF, SUSAN STRASBERG, ELI WALLACH and ANTHONY PERKINS; Best of Broadway put on the famous hit "Broadway," with JOSEPH COTTEN, KEENAN WYNN and AKIM TAMIROFF; ELIZABETH MONTGOMERY and MIRIAM HOPKINS were in GORE VIDAL's "Summer Pavilion" on Studio One; Producers' Showcase had "Darkness at Noon," with LEE J. COBB, DAVID WAYNE, RUTH ROMAN and OSCAR HOMOLKA; and FAY Bainter starred in an EVELYN WAUGH adaptation on Robert Montgomery Presents called "Bella Fleace Gave a Party" . . . And--on the air--LASSIE was preparing for her first litter.
